WM. FIFE'S Patent Oblique Gold Pen -The We excellence of a well-made Quill Pen is acknowledged by all, but ew are aware that the cause is that it bends laterally at the point, in making strong shades, and occomes an Oblique Pen

occomes an Oblique Pen Teachers of penmanship always direct the pupil to hold the pen so that the top will point over the right shoulder, for by so doing the split and shades are brought more in a line; but still, "when held weil," there is from 15 to 35 degrees difference between the split of the pen and the downward marks. W. Fife's Oblique Pen obviates this difficulty. It curves or deflects from 15 to 35 degrees to the right at the point where it comes in contact with the paper, and it is as perfect an instrument for sloped writing as the straight pen is for back hand.

MARSH'S LATE IMPROVED SELF ADJUSTING TRUSS—the embodiment of ingenaity. Skill and science are beautifully blended in this useful instrument, admirably adapting itself to the different movements and positions of the body. Its perfect action and certain pressure at all times and under all circumstances, gives to the wearer that confidence in his safety so nacessary to his happiness. The instrument is neat and compact, dispensing wholly with straps and buckles, leaving the wearer a free use of his limbs, he bocomes unconscious of its presence, and pleased with its relief, continues to wear it a few mouths, when a cure is permanently effected.

Also, MARSH & CO.'S ABDOMINAL SUPPORTERS, of various patterns; one of which claims especial attention, as it is worn with much comparative comfort to that of others, being so constructed as to give a uniform support to the Back and Abdomen, doing away with the steel spring, so annoying to the wearer. The above atticle will be found of great benefit to persons afflicted with pain in the back and sides, inability to be upon their feet for any length of time, which arvess from a displacement of parts that are readily restored by timely application of a properly constructed instrument.

BRILLIANT Teeth and Sweet Breath. pure atmosphere, and hence many diseases arise which perhaps are never attributed to the right cause. JULES HAUEL'S PURIFIED CHARCOAL TOOTH-PASTE is decidedly the best remedy yet discovered for diseased teeth and gums, as it neutralizes the disagreeable odor arising from carious teeth, and renders the gums firm and healthy. All dentists agree that charcoal is an excellent dentrifice; but many persons have been fearful of using it on account of the hard and gritty substances which are generally mixed with it, and which are calculated to injure the enamel of the teeth.

Jules Hauel's Purified Charcoal Tooth Paste is entirely free from this objection, as the coal from which it is prepared is formed from poplar wood burnt expressly for the purpose in an iron cylinder. The other ingredients are only such as are necessary to prepage the charcoal in this form, and in themselves are entirely innocuous. The Purified Charcoal Tooth Paste will impart the most beautiful and brilliant whiteness to the teeth, keep the gums healthy, and make the breath pure and sweet. For sale wholesale and retail by wished," resorting to cosmetics, lotions, washes, paints, and coloring materials, to restore to them a semblance of what disease has deprived them of, and that, too, with greatinjury to the skin. Bull's Sarasparilla is the best ecsmetic known. It beautifies the skin by removing every particle of morbid and diseased matter from the blood, making it pure, healthy and vigorous, giving activity to every minute vessel, and changing the yellow and dark countenance to the bloom and freshness of youth. Ladies, abandon the use of paints and mixtures, and use Bull's Sarasparilla, the only effectual remedy. "A word to the wise is sufficient," and a hint is enough for the ladies.

We carnestly invite all persons who are suffering with my of the ills that flesh is heir to, to call on Br. On the Resolution of Mr. Seward, of welcome to Kossuth; delivered in the U. S. Senate, Thursday, Dec. 11., 1851. Continued.

If the Hungarians boasted, as is here said, that they were the firmest supporters of the Austrian power, and had freely shed their blood in its defence, did not the noble patriots who conducted us through our stormy and perilous crisis-did they not boast, in like manner, that they had shown their attachment to England by fighting her battles in the wars of 1745 and 1760, and had taken efficient parts in the capture of Havana, of Louisbourg, and of Queb c, and in the annihilation of the French power upon this continent? So began the contest; but sufferings and sacrifices on one side, and cruelty and op pression on the other, soon changed all these feelings, and converted sincere friendship into deadly enrity. And such is the natural course of all revolutions. They generally commence with moderate demands, but soon change their character and seek the permanent establishment of independence. Concessions which would at first had been received with gratitude are afterwards spurned with contempt and the struggling party rises in its hopes and expectations in proportion to its own exertions and to the prospects of success. I repeat, it is human nature. Attempts at subjugation produce their necessary consequences—en-mity and alienation. Now, sir, I do hope we shall hear no more of Hungarian in consistency and insincerity, because little was asked at first and much afterwards; for we cannot hear it without being sensible that the same accusation may be made against Washington and his associates, whom we all love ard honor. This has been precisely the course of all men who have had to fight the battles of freedom, since human rights first contended against Mr. President, what is the object of the present proceeding? I refer now to the resolution introduced by the senator from Mississippi, [Mr. Foote,] as it is more comprehensive that the one offered by the senator from New York, [Mr. Seward] and better opens the whole subject. But by-and-by I shall briefly consider the latter. What, I repeat is the object of this proceeding? It is to express the interests of the American people and their representatives in the glorious cause-ay, and in the glorious fate of this great Hungarian leader. What was that resolution of the senator from Mississippi? It was substantially an expression of "sympathy" for a people "unfurling the banners of free dom," in the beautiful words of Washington; and these .urni.h a precedent which I hope the senators from Georgia and Kentucky [Mr. Berrien and Mr. Underwood] will consider sufficiently authoritative to enable them to join us upon this occasion in expressing the sympathy of our countrymen, as the same feeling was expressed by the first and greatest of our Chief Magistrates in the heroic age of the republic. What have nations a right to -a real practical right to do-under the circumstances in which we are placed? That is the true question, divested of all the fears whose anticipations have here fallen from eloquent tongues, but I trust upon unbelieving ears. Why, sir, every nation has the right to open wide its doors, and to receive, with welcome and kind ness, all the victims of oppression who, seeking to free their country from despotism, encounter the disastrous chances of at Mr. Fred. Bauer's. safety by flight. These un ortunate men dec29 dim are received and protected by every government under Heaven, except where excluded by the joint stipulations of some of those iron-hearted rulers whose vengeance nothing but human blood will satisfy, and who desire to cut off all means of escape from homeless, houseless patriots. The moment a revolution is put down, those who have taken part in it flee elsewhere, if they can, for protection. In Europe they find refuge in Commission and Forwarding Merchants. France and England. There are at this WHOLESALE GROCERS, & DEALERS moment some half a dozen wandering pretenders, whom revolutionary event have expelled or withheld from thrones, and who are roaming through Europe protected by its various governments.

England at one time afforded an asy-England at one time afforded an asylum to the refugees of two, if not of three

And yet, what is the importance of a small band of exiles upon a distant continent to the real presence and protection of him who claims, by the grace of God, the government of a country? If the forthe government of a country? If the former is justly offensive, I should like to know what the latter is? If this poor privi lege of escape were taken away, you would shut up within a condemned district every man under the ban of his rulers, and you would make each of the despotic countries of Europe one vast slaughterhouse; and still more, you would destroy the very germs of liberty throughout a vast portion of the world. But, still furvast portion of the world. But, still fur-ther, the governments of Europe appropri-ate money to defray the expenses of strangers thus thrown upon their hosstrangers thus thrown upon their hospitality. The British government has CLOTHING: CLOTHING:: CHOTHING:: done this; and so has the government of SPROULE & MANDEVILLE, France, and to a large amount, for exiles who have taken refuge there. It is a well known fact that the banished pretenders to several of the European thrones have been aided, if not wholly supported, by the contributions of their monarchial the contributions of their monarchial the land carments as are mid-by the best merchant and deal who have taken refuge there. It is a well who have taken refuge there are contributions of their monarchial the reputation they always have had of selling as the contributions of their monarchial the reputation they always have had of selling as the contributions of their monarchial brethe n who have been fortunate enough to retain their position. And are we to refrain from even the poor tribute of expressing our sympathy for these interesting strangers who come among us—these ing strangers who come among us—these interesting strangers who come among us—these inte patriotic exiles—because we are republicans, and they desire their countrymen to become such? No one complains of monarchial sympathy. Let no man in this free country complain of the republican expression of it. It is futile to talk about intervention. There is no intervention in all this.

It is often asked, how can a medicine so simple in its nature perform such wonderful cures? We answer, the Thicture is composed entirely of vegetables from nature's garden, which give strength and tone to the stomach-creating a healthy appetite, which the patient is at liberty to indulge, then it is life finds its way to every member throughout the entire system. The liver then whose functions are vital and of every importance to the system, commences its healthy operations, which are first, to clean itself; next, it opens the pores, throws off all impurity of blood and food, clears off that gloom and wretched feeling which ever attends a morbid liver. The bowels now become regulated, and healthy action takes place—every nerve receiving its wonted life; the whole system is invigorated, rendering life truly desirable and comfortable. ap19
